Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 20 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Strong winds, especially at the coast, and frequent showers.

Today:
An unsettled day as a band of rain arrives in the morning giving heavy and persistent rain, particularly in the west. Strong winds, with coastal gales. Colder than as of late, especially in any winds. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying unsettled overnight, with further showers and longer spells of rain. Winds strengthening further with gales becoming severe at times with strong inland gustiness in the south. A mild night. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Friday:
Staying unsettled on Friday with frequent showers, heavy at times, and strong winds. A risk of coastal gales and strong inland gustiness. Winds then ease overnight. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Calmer Saturday, with scattered showers and sunny spells. Then turning unsettled again as band of rain arrives Sunday giving frequent showers, heavy and persistent at times, and stronger winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.